Interesting web sites

The net:

Google search engine
http://www.google.com/

Usenet News searchable archive, run by Google (formerly at Deja.com)
http://groups.google.com/

Open Directory Project, an index of the web maintained by volunteers (no ads!)
http://dmoz.org

New Scientist web links, selected by reviewers (scroll down for subject index)
http://www.newscientist.com/weblinks/

Tim Berners-Lee's page: World Wide Web history, architecture, prospects http://www.w3.org/People/Berners-Lee/

Education:

MIT course web pages, in many subject areas (scroll down a bit to see the list)
http://web.mit.edu/afs/athena.mit.edu/org/a/acs/www/acaduses2.html

UW Computer Science course web pages
http://www.cs.washington.edu/education/course-webs.html

MURL Lectures, archive of computer science research lectures by streaming video http://murl.microsoft.com/ContentMap.asp

Open University, an unusually detailed and well-organized on-line catalog http://www3.open.ac.uk/courses/

.The arts:

Paintings, indexed by artist
http://www.ibiblio.org/wm/paint/auth/

Photographs, indexed by photographer
http://catlin.clas.virginia.edu/photo/archive/query.cfm

Comics, samples indexed by artist (dealer's site, but low-key and helpful)
http://www.lambiek.net/artists/index.htm

All Music Guide, discography (commercial, but comprehensive and well-organized) http://www.allmusic.com/, also http://www.allclassical.com/

On-Line Books, other book sites

```
http://digital.library.upenn.edu/books/index.html
http://digital.library.upenn.edu/books/archives.html
```

In a category by themselves:

Phil Agre's page: technology and society, design, philosophy, career advice (long, keep scrolling)
```
http://dlis.gseis.ucla.edu/people/pagre/
```

Red Rock Eater News Service: technology news, reviews, politics, links, and cheap pens
```
http://commons.somewhere.com/rre/
```

David Eppstein's page: computational geometry, art, science, games, and much more
```
http://www.ics.uci.edu/~eppstein/home.html
```

Principles of Graphic Design (commercial promo, interesting use of web page techniques)
```
http://www.mundidesign.com/
```

Internet Anagram Server
```
http://www.wordsmith.org/anagram/
```

Search for Your Name in Pi
```
http://www.angelfire.com/mt/ofolives/pisearch.html
```

Jon Jacky, jackyj@evergreen.edu